What KMSAuto Net can do Let's look at the modes of operation that can be used in the program. You can find out about them in detail on the official KMSAuto website. The first and most common mode in the CCM Auto No it's automatic. When you use it, the application itself chooses the best way to activate and applies it. The Hacktool program or a hacking tool will remember the activation algorithm and, if it is successful, next time it will apply it by default. There is also a manual setting (NoAuto). Its use is recommended only for experienced users or administrators of operating systems, an unprepared person is able at best not to be able to activate the software, and at worst do him harm. Another mode is Hook. In this case, the original program file is replaced with a modified one, and when activation occurs, the software is returned to the site. In new versions of the application, the file is no longer replaced, the whole process is in RAM. The WinDivert mode installs a special driver into the operating system, through which the connection to the KMS server is made, through which the product is activated. There is another mode called TAP. In the operating system, a special interface is installed, through which activation is carried out. In total there are two TAP-adapters (drivers) in the program, if one of them is already installed, then, to avoid affecting it, the program will install the other and will work through it. If you use the file downloaded from our site, we guarantee the absence of viruses and trojans in it. To easily use the activator for Windows and Office, you need to add it to the list of exceptions if you have Kaspersky Anti-Virus or Comodo. Other antiviruses may call this function differently. False actuation of the antivirus is due to the fact that the activator contains complex utilities that modify the system files of the Windows OS. If you use the built-in antivirus in Windows then follow our instructions below. 1. Open the "Windows Defender Security Center". 2. Go to "Protection against viruses and threats." 3. Go to "Options for protection against viruses and other threats." 4. Disable Real-time Protection. The procedure for adding a KMS to to Windows 10 Defender exceptions: Open the Defender. In the opened explorer, find the required file or folder, and click "Open". KMS avto will be added to the exceptions and the antivirus will no longer identify it as a threat. Or disable for some time the antivirus, completely (not recommended). The order of adding a program to exceptions or shutdowns varies for different antiviruses. For each specific antivirus information can be found on the network. How to delete and whether to delete? The program itself does not require removal, since it is not installed as a stationary utility or application. It is easy enough to run, it is portable (except for the KMSAuto Helper version, which runs in the background). Since antiviruses define it as malicious or potentially unwanted software, it is advisable to delete the file itself with the .exe extension. When you first scan the windows will detect it as a threat. KMS-Service is not worth deleting. The program will active the system with a specified frequency. Otherwise, during the next security update (KB971033), the current activation may fail when the key fails validation on a real KMS. On Windows 7/8 / 8,1, such updates come only once a year. On the "top ten" with every large-scale update (every half year). Periodic confirmation of activation occurs unnoticed by the user.
